“UNHEARD VOICES”: RADIO AND DIGITAL AWARENESS PROJECT LAUNCHES ACROSS SOUTHERN AFRICA TO INSPIRE GREATER HUMAN KINDNESS AND INCLUSION

A heart-warming radio and digital project, “Unheard Voices”, launches on 23rd May, sharing real-life stories of people across Southern Africa who are lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender or sex workers, and how they have become accepted for who they are over time by people in their lives.

These never-heard-before human stories show us how for every act of intolerance, there is an act of compassion. These are the stories of mothers, fathers, grandfathers, grandmothers, aunts, uncles, brothers, sisters, friends, co-workers, healthcare workers, religious and traditional leaders.

An example of one of the many stories from Namibia includes a church leader with a transgender child: “I had instances where I would be ashamed because I thought of what negative things my community would say about my husband and I as my child is transgender and I was a church leader. I found out that my child was transgender when she was 9 and I had to go deep into my heart as a mother and understand how my daughter is different. I always regarded her as my daughter and it pained me to hear and see people in the community calling her derogatory names and inflicting hate upon her. She is transgender, and I love her unconditionally.”

“You can read more moving real-life stories on the website: http://unheardvoices.africa/stories-of-hope

The campaign has worked with 4 regional networks that represent people of different sexual orientations, gender identities and expression as well as sex workers to unearth these stories. This includes African Men for Sexual Health & Rights (AMSHeR), the Coalition of African Lesbians (CAL), the Southern African Trans Forum (SATF) and the African Sex Workers Alliance (ASWA). The Communications & Media Advocacy Manager from AMSHeR in South Africa, Juliet Mphande said: “The positive stories shared show that many people are choosing to open their minds and hearts to live in harmony with people who may be different to them. We hope it will inspire others to do the same”.

The project is attracting champions across different spheres. Jennifer van den Heever, a Deacon of the Anglican Diocese in Namibia quotes: “Healing, forgiving and reconciling!!! Join us in our campaign to make the world an understanding and forgiving Nation. Love one another should be our commitment.”

The project is part of the KP REACH programme funded by The Global Fund, managed by the non-profit organisation Hivos, which seeks to reduce stigma and discrimination against people who are gay, bisexual, lesbian, transgender or engage in sex work as it is a key barrier to people feeling safe accessing vital health services. Kate Thomson, Head, Community Rights & Gender at the Global Fund said: “Unheard Voices is important because we know that fear of being stigmatised and discriminated against is a key barrier to accessing vital health services, including HIV prevention and treatment services, for people who are gay, lesbian, bisexual, transgender or engage in sex work. We cannot end HIV as an epidemic unless we address stigma and discrimination.”

NOTES TO EDITORS

We have provided a brief overview of key partners on the project below.

African Men for Sexual Health and Rights (AMSHeR): AMSHeR is a Pan-African coalition of organisations led by people who are Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual or Transgender. Through advocacy and capacity strengthening, AMSHeR promotes nondiscrimination, particularly discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity, and advances access to quality health services for MSM/LGBT individuals in Africa.

African Sex Workers Alliance
The Pan African Alliance of sex worker led groups’ vision is to see a world where sex work is recognized as work, and where the health and human rights of all sex workers living and working in Africa are protected. ASWA exists to strengthen the voices, to empower and to advocate for and advance the Health and Human rights of female, male and transgender sex workers in Africa.

Coalition of African Lesbians
This pan-African network of organisations in sub-Saharan Africa are committed to advancing freedom, justice & bodily autonomy for all women on the African continent and beyond, by building a feminist future, where social justice prevails and where all Africans can live in dignity and freedom.

Southern African Trans Forum
This alliance of trans partner organisations, is trans-led, trans-specific and based in the SADC region. The organisation was born from a series of meetings by trans organisations across Southern Africa, who saw the need to build a regional movement to further conceptualise and ‘concretise’ a regional trans agenda.

The Humanistic Institute for Cooperation with Developing Countries
Hivos is an international organisation that seeks new solutions to persistent global issues. Its primary focus is achieving structural change through cooperating with innovative businesses, citizens and their organisations.
